Meeting in Versailles

IFLA Central Region Informal Meeting

In early February a successful meeting of Central Region (CR) delegates was held at Versailles, IFLA's headquarters. The purpose of the meeting was to assist the Central Region Secretariat with on-going projects and to make progress with the IFLA-EFLA relationship.

Martha Fajardo, the IFLA President, invited the Central Region Secretariat and some local delegates to the meeting. It also proved an opportunity to work on a number of other matters such as the 2005 World Congress and the Chinese Society of Landscape Architects membership application.

The meeting was held in conjunction with a meeting called by UNESCO so took advantage of the need for the President and Secretary General to be in Paris.

Those who attended the two day meeting were Hal Moggridge, Frank Lewis, Charlotte Buys, Radmila Fingerova, Klaus Werthner, Jeppe Anderson, Marc Pinte, Philip De Roo, Diane Menzies,, Heiner Rodel, Pierre-Marie Tricaud and Martha Fajardo (Chair).

Meeting in Versailles

The meeting, led by Jeppe Anderson, first grappled with the issue of organizing on-going projects for the Central Region, while acknowledging that delegates are busy and associations have few resources to assist with projects.

IFLA Central Region conference May 3/5, 2004 Prague

The key event for the Central Region for 2004 is the conference in Prague.

Radmila Fingerova, the Convenor, reported that the conference starts on May 3 2004. The aim is to unite the Central Region and to provide a focus for the profession in the Czech Republic. It is to be held at the University of Architecture which has meeting rooms as well as a larger lecture room.

Post congress tours are also planned. 34 abstracts have been received from around the world but few from the Central Region. The IFLA Exco are to support the conference by holding their Exco meeting in Prague prior to the conference, instead of in Versailles and are to contribute wherever they can to the conference.

Please check the website www.iflaprague2004.cz as well as other information in this newsletter for more information. IFLA calls on active participation from the Central Region as well as those from the wider membership. Delegates, please email your members now to encourage members to attend.

It was agreed that a Central Region Council meeting would be planned in the programme. This will be held on Tuesday May 4 from 10am to 1.30pm. Klaus Werthner is to send a notice and agenda to all CR delegates and members.

Meeting in Versailles

European Landscape Convention

Members discussed the contribution IFLA had made to the development of the convention, and the importance of ratification of the convention for the profession.

IFLA is to write a formal letter to support the convention and this is to come from the President of IFLA.

IFLA/EFLA relationship

Delegates were in agreement that ways to resolve the apparent duplication of activities in the past had not been successful.

There was agreement that a closer working relationship with EFLA would benefit the profession. There is the possibility of confusion for colleagues outside the profession and a divided profession internally in the Central Region at present. Various options were explored.

The President, Martha Fajardo was due to meet with the EFLA President Maria Teresa Andresen, and the meeting agreed that Martha should outline each option to her and invite the EFLA President to indicate what EFLA would be interested in pursuing and to indicate what changes would be needed in IFLA or EFLA to achieve this.

Martha Fajardo subsequently met with the EFLA President and both agreed that changes should be made for the benefit of the profession. This will be explored in the next few months and it seems likely that IFLA will be able to welcome Maria Teresa Andresen to address members at the start of the Central Region conference in Prague.

Partnership 1st International Days of Landscape May 5/6 Nantes.

While IFLA sees the Prague conference as their main event the conference organized by IDEAL Reseau is also supported by IFLA as being of benefit to the profession. Pierre-Marie Tricaud the President of Federation Francaise du Paysage (FFP) is to present a paper at this conference and to welcome delegates on behalf of the IFLA President at the opening ceremony.

Regional Elections 2004

Forms have been distributed for nominations. Klaus Werthner, the C R Secretary noted that he had not sought nominations from non financial members.

Cooperation UIA/IFLA/IsoCaRP* and UNESCO

1st Working Meeting in Paris

6th February 2004

UNESCO called a meeting of representatives of IFLA, IsoCaRP and UIA. The meeting was attended by representatives of key sections of UNESCO, and the three NGO's.

- UNESCO :
- Prof. Chaibong Hahm,
 - Francisco Komlavi Seddoh,
 - Marie-Louise Kearney
 - Peter Dogse
 - Xiaolin Cheng
 - Jehanne Phares
 - Brigitte Colin
- IsoCaRP :
- Alfonso Vegara Gomez, President
 - Hari Baral, Vice-President for France
- UIA :
- Jean Paul Riguet, Secretary General
 - Francine Troupillon, Administrative Director
 - Paula Liberato,
- IFLA :
- Martha Fajardo, President
 - Diane Menzies, Secretary General

IFLA considered the challenge to work together as NGO's as a very timely opportunity. It was agreed at that meeting that IsoCaRP and IFLA would join each other as institutional members for UNESCO (and other) activities.

IFLA is to be invited to the next IsoCaRP congress and IsoCaRP has been invited to the next Central Region and the World Congress in Taiwan.

The following proposals put to UNESCO by IFLA were approved (at least in principle):

- the extension to the Western Region education proposal was given a positive indication of support
- an extension to the Francophone project is to be put to UNESCO
- the IFLA charter on education is to be put forward in May
- a proposal for a task force is to be put forward in conjunction with IsoCaRP for consultancy services available globally
- the Sir Geoffrey Jellicoe Gold Medal proposal is to be put formally to UNESCO, firstly on the basis of 'under the auspices' and subsequently as a proposal for a joint project, funded by IFLA.

A report is to be prepared on future UNESCO direction from IFLA and IsoCaRP's perspective and IFLA is anticipating minutes of the meeting before embarking on this project. At the meeting IFLA was also urged to make contact with their national commissions.

The first benefit will be a better understanding through UNESCO of the profession. In addition, national commissions will be in a better position to share information on UNESCO projects and to support IFLA activities.

Delegates and associations are therefore urged to identify the chair and members of their national commission and to find out their priorities so that a more fruitful working relationship can develop.

The purpose of the meeting was two-fold. Firstly UNESCO wished to explore the possibility of the three organizations working together as an umbrella group. UNESCO had decided that they needed to have a more efficient and focused approach to NGO participation and wished to have an agreement on cooperation between the NGO's. Secondly UNESCO sought IFLA's input into the restructuring work UNESCO is addressing for future project direction.

The next meeting has been proposed for November 2004

European Landscape Convention

*(The IFLA President sent letters to Prof. Adrian Phillips University of Wales Cardiff, and to the Hon. Minister of State for Rural Affairs and Local Environmental Quality UK)
They are repeated below:*

Professor Adrian Phillips
University of Wales Cardiff

During its February meeting in Versailles, the central region of the International Federation of Landscape Architects (IFLA) learnt of the successful Cardiff European Landscape Conference in December 2003. IFLA, through Prof. Arno Schmid its president at the time, was active in early negotiations leading to the European Landscape Convention. Therefore the recommendation calling of all European Governments, in particular the UK, to join the Convention is particularly welcome. The aims of the Convention need to be reflected in future policy and practice throughout Europe.

IFLA especially urges the merits following from the definition in Article 1f which states that "Landscape planning means strong forward-looking action to enhance, restore or create landscapes". In a nutshell this clause identifies the mechanisms by which the future landscape can be safeguarded. At the ICOMOS/UK and IUCN Conference in Oxford in May 2004, please record IFLA's support and the importance attached to this creative definition.

The Rt. Hon. Alun Michael MP
Minister of State for Rural Affairs and Local Environmental Quality

The World Council of the International Federation of Landscape Architects (IFLA), a body founded in Cambridge, England in 1948, is a keen supporter of the European Landscape Convention. Indeed my predecessor as president, Professor Arno Sighart Schmid, was active in early negotiations for the Convention.

I am therefore delighted to learn that ICOMOS-UK and IUCN are to hold a conference in Oxford on May 7th-9th 2004 to discuss creative ways of working with the European Landscape Convention. We in IFLA very much hope that this event presages ratification of the Convention by the government of the United Kingdom.

Dear colleagues,

On May 1st the Czech Republic and another nine European countries will start a "new life" as a part of the European Union. This is big change and also a big challenge – and we hope will be a very good beginning for better and more intensive cooperation.

Cooperation is a common word but real cooperation is not a very common matter. So we are trying to help a little bit by convening the IFLA Conference in Prague starting at the very beginning of this "new life" on May 2nd. Our aim is to create a space for sharing and understanding, not only inside our profession, but also between professions - with architects, regional and town planners, and specialists in monument conservation.

We have a wonderful program for you - very good speakers from all over the world, interesting excursions and pleasant social events and – Prague is beautiful in May. The Czech Republic is small in size but our landscape is very diverse. We would like to show you a little - just the first look-in.

On behalf of the Czech landscape architects, our organizing committee and conference secretariat I invite you to the IFLA Central Region Conference. We all look forward to welcoming you in Prague. And please do not hesitate to contact our secretariat as soon as possible – it will help us a lot.

Yours sincerely,
Radmila Fingerova

News and Notes

© 2004 from ASLA Design for Active Living

The American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA) has declared April 2004 as National Landscape Architecture Month.

The theme will be Design for Active Living, highlighting ways community design affects residents' daily activity levels and, in turn, their overall health. Studies show that access to resources such as parks, recreational facilities, bicycle paths, walking trails, and sidewalks can increase physical activity among residents, lowering obesity and improving health.

"Years ago, we all walked to school, to the store, to the park, or to a friend's house. Today, we are often unable to walk or bike anywhere safely, because our communities are designed mainly for car travel." said Susan L. B. Jacobson, FASLA, president of ASLA. "The change from a pedestrian to a commuter lifestyle has fueled an epidemic of obesity in the U.S., particularly among children. We want to encourage everyone to look at their communities during April and become advocates for an environment that is more exercise-friendly. As landscape architects, we can design active living components back into our communities."

April was selected as National Landscape Architecture Month because it encompasses Earth Day (April 22) and the birthday of Frederick Law Olmsted (April 27), the founder of the American landscape architecture profession.

World Urban Forum 2004, BARCELONA, 13/17 September

The Spanish Mediterranean port city of Barcelona is preparing to receive some 2,000 to 3,000 delegates representing governments, local authorities, non-governmental organizations and other experts on urban issues from around the world for the second gathering of UN-HABITAT's World Urban Forum 13-17 September 2004.

The theme of this year's forum is: Cities: Crossroads of cultures, inclusiveness and integration?

The World Urban Forum is one of the culminating events in the Urban Forum of Cultures in Barcelona, which consists of a wide range of events including international conferences, exhibitions and concerts.

The city of Barcelona is building a huge centre for these activities on over 200 hectares of land, part of which has been reclaimed from the sea. The Mayor described the project as a good model of environment conservation and sustainability in an urban setting. For instance, solar panels and natural gas will provide 40 per cent of the power needs, the treatment of sewage is being improved in the plant over which part of the Forum centre is being built, and better filtration of polluted water running from the city to the sea has already resulted in regeneration of animal life in the beaches next to the centre. The citizens of this relatively poor part of the city will also benefit from the rehabilitation of the area.

Honorary membership of BDLA: Professor Arno Sighart Schmid

March 18, 2004

Mr. Adrian Hoppenstedt
President BDLA
Berlin, Germany

Dear President Adrian Hoppenstedt,

The International Federation of Landscape Architects was delighted to learn that Bund Deutscher Landschaftsarchitekten (BDLA) had resolved to confer honorary membership on Professor Arno Sighart Schmid. We understand that this honour is in recognition of his outstanding services to the profession of landscape architecture in Germany. In addition, we understand that a ceremony to mark the occasion will be held on 18 March 2004. Although we cannot attend the event we wish to convey to BDLA members our most sincere endorsement.

We wish to join BDLA in congratulating Professor Schmid on this prestigious and most deserved award. BDLA members would be aware that Professor Schmid has made a similar valued contribution to the profession at the global level. During his four year presidency of IFLA he provided firm and forthright leadership to reunite the profession and move the Federation forward. Since that time he has remained a hard working, sound and diplomatic member through advice to successive leaders. In addition he accepted nomination and energetically took up the role of IFLA International Liaison representative. This role is one of the ways by which IFLA is raising the profile of the profession among other international groups and helping to expand understanding and appreciation of our profession.

Professor Schmid has eagerly taken on a time-consuming task and we are pleased to report that through his wise and timely work we are achieving positive results from a number of professional organizations, including UNESCO, and IsoCaRP, the International Society of City and Regional Planners.

IFLA takes this opportunity provided by BDLA in thanking Professor Schmid for his contribution to our profession, and in helping to make our fragile world a better place.

Yours sincerely
Martha C. Fajardo
